

PROMOTING ENVIRON-

MENT: Carol Gray of Plymouth Meeting and Melen Boothby of Chestnut Hill were delighted to be a part of the recent annual gala for The Schuylkill Center for Environmental Education in upper Roxborough to raise funds and awareness for environmental education. The first environmental education center in the U.S., founded over 40 years ago, held its premier party on-site at 8480 Hagy's Mill Rd. With an attendance of over 200 guests, The Schuylkill Center for Environmental Education raised over $79,000. The 2008 Henry Meigs Award for environmental leadership, named for the Center's founder, was given to John and Cindy Affleck and educator Dana DeNick and her students from Esperanza Academy Charter High School. For more information, call 215-482-7300.

PROTECTING THE FUTURE: Steve and Audrey Simpson of Chestnut Hill and Honoree John Affleck of Wyndmoor were an integral part of the recent annual gala for The Schuylkill Center for Environmental Education in upper Roxborough to raise funds and awareness for environmental education. The Center raised over $79,000. The 2008 Henry Meigs Award for environmental leadership was given to Affleck and his wife, Cindy, and educator Dana DeNick and her students from Esperanza Academy Charter High School. To learn more, call 215-482-7300 or visit www.schuylkillcenter.org.